About the authors

Dennis H Moore brings fun into the corporate sector and people's lives by having fun himself and demonstrating how corporations and individuals will profit by harnessing the Power of Fun to use as a business growth tool. A professional speaker, certified trainer and corporate MC, he relates his early years and experience of travelling with his family and their sideshows. He was dyslexic because, at 17 he ran away from the Circus to join the corporate world. Now he lives 'The CIRCUS of Life'.

Kevin Ryan is a professional speaker, trainer and facilitator who has spent the last seven years helping businesses and organisations use humour to improve overall profitability. This book represents a personal triumph for Kevin. As a child, he was always told he was a 'funny looking kid', and he is pleased that he has finally found a way to convert this liability into something that might turn a dollar.
